Efficiency of Complex Dispute Resolution Clauses in the Current Economic Climate

Date: Tuesday, 28 September 2010

Venue: Intercontinental Hotel
Fortuna Hall
4 Nicolae Balcescu Bd.
010051, Bucharest
Romania

The proliferation of international commercial disputes is an inevitable by-product of the global economy. Therefore, as international business booms, resolving the increasing number of international disputes by effective international resolution mechanisms is a challenge to the legal practitioners. Moreover, complex projects such as those pertaining to the construction sector usually require tailored dispute resolution mechanisms aimed to ensure both the continuous execution of works and an efficient resolution of the dispute. Among the available dispute resolution alternatives to litigation, international arbitration is by far the most commonly used practical means for resolving international disputes.

This first ICC conference to be hosted in Romania aims at offering a practical approach in presenting the different forms of dispute resolution services in the current economic climate.

Who should attend?

Discussion topics will be of particular interest to corporate counsel, practising lawyers, arbitrators, mediators and other ADR experts and users; business people and academics as well as legal counsels of State-owned companies and institutions.

Working language: English.
